STAGE STORIES.

Amusement Announcements, Lobby Theater—Odd Bits of Gossip.

Mr. Howard Gould, known for his success in Anthony Hope's dramatization of "The Prisoner of Zenda," will shortly be seen here in another stage play, "Rupert of Hentzau." Mr. Gould's impersonation of the dual role of Rudolf and the King is a performance remarkable for artistic conception and rendition. For scenic environment, costuming and detail, the production is up to the high standard of all Daniel Frohman's previous successes and the cast is said to be one of exceptional merit.

The announcement that Carroway, the great hypnotist and mind reader, will open an engagement at the Opera House on Monday night, has started anew the question as to the genuineness of the feats he performs. Paris being the home of two past masters in the hypnotic art, the people will be anxious to see whether Carroway is, as he claims, at the head of the class. At Lexington Wednesday last he successfully performed the carriage drive test amid the plaudits of a multitude of people and in the evening entertained the Elk Lodge with an exhibition of his mystic power, which the Lexington Herald says were superior to anything ever seen in that city before.

On Monday at 10 a. m. he will give the carriage drive test here under the supervision of a Committee appointed by Mayor Perry. The price for his engagement are 15, 25, 35 and 50c, and reserved seats now on sale at Brooks Drug Store.

This week only, Heyman's have on display a fine selection of furs that are genuine beauties.

"ANTISEPTALINE" is guaranteed to prevent decay of teeth, sore throat and ulcers.

The ladies of the Christian Church netted $40 on their Thanksgiving sale of cakes and eatables.

OBITUARY.

U. S. Senator Cushman K. Davis, is dead at St. Paul, Minn.

Geo. W. Willson, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, died at Washington, Tuesday. His remains were taken to Hamilton, O., for burial. Hon. John W. Yerkes is spoken of as his successor.

Miss Sallie Smith, who died last week at Maryville, Tenn., was a sister of Gray Smith, of this city.

Mrs. Elizabeth Humble Holloway Tracey, sister of Ex-Senator Holloway, and widow of Capt. Buford Tracey, was burned to death at Winchester last Monday. Mrs. Tracey was standing before an open grate, bathing with turpentine some bruises received by a fall a few days ago. In placing the bottle upon the mantle piece, it fell into the fire and exploded and ignited her clothing, burning her so bad it caused her death. Two daughters were badly burned, trying to extinguish the flames. Her husband lost his life a few years ago by falling from an elevator. A son was injured and sustained a maimed hand by an accident a short time since. She is survived by seven children.

THE FARM AND TURF.

News for the Farmer, Trader and Stock Raiser.

Robert Ratliff sold to Elmer Clinkenbeard 62 acres, near Moorefield, for $2,450.

"Bird" Kidd, of Clark county, has purchased $27,000 worth of fat cattle in Fleming county in the last few days.

Robt. McConnell, near Versailles, had 12 sheep killed by dogs and twenty injured so they will die. The loss is heavy, as the sheep are the finest in the State.

During the last three days several cars of trotters and pacers catalogued in the sale in Madison Square Garden, New York, will be shipped from Lexington, will go the consignment of congressman Joe Bailey, of Texas, who is going to sell out his Kentucky interests, Scott Hudson and Jerry Tarlton. Bailey will send the stallion Electric Bell and twelve others, principally colts by Electric Bell. Scott Hudson will take along the filly Alice Mades, with a two-year-old record of 2:14½, and a trial of 2:00; Stranger (2:12½), a double winner at the October breeders' meeting; Timberlake (2:19½) and Jean Inglow (2:11½). Tarlton will send Actual (2:20) and another one.

A yearling half brother to Tommie Atkins, the great thoroughbred, is dead. The animal was by Dr. McBride, of Quesal. Major Thomas sold him in New York at public auction recently to A. Featherstone, of Chicago, for $7,500. The horse died of pneumonia.

MATTERS MATRIMONIAL.

The Wedding Bells, Announcements, Cupid's Mischief.

FROST-DAVIS.

The second Presbyterian Church was the scene of a fashionable wedding Wednesday evening. The contracting parties being Miss Mary Irvine Davis only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Davis, of High street, and Colonel J. D. Frost, assistant adjutant general, of Columbia, South Carolina.

No invitations were sent out to friends in town but long before the hour set for the ceremony the house was well filled with friends as attestations of the popularity of the bride.

The church was beautiful with palms, ferns and growing plants, the altar and surrounding the organ was a mass of magnificent emblems of nature.

The bride, who is a lovely brunette, was gowned in ivory satin with a bodice of duchess lace. The usual veil was worn caught up on one side in graceful folds with a bunch of orange blossoms and a diamond sunburst, gift of the groom. She carried brides roses. According to the old adage the bride's attire is incomplete without "something old and something new, something borrowed and something blue." One of the garments worn by the bride belonged to the trousseau of her grandmother more than fifty years old.

The bridesmaids, who were Misses Lizzette Dickson, Bessie Holliday, Lucy Johnson and Mary Irvine, of Danville, were becomingly attired in pink organdie over silk and carried La France roses. The groomsmen who acted as ushers also were Messrs J. D. Bell, E. H. Anll, B. P. McMasters and E. H. Frost, of Columbia, S. C., and Mr. Oscar Yeates, of Louisville, Messrs. Albert Hinton and John J. Williams, of this city.

Numerous telegrams of congratulation were received. The presents were handsome and numerous, many from the Orient. Among those from a distance the writer observed one from Mr. and Mrs. Clay Clement who are at present touring Australia, another from Admiral and Mrs. McCann, of New York also several from Tiffany's.

After the ceremony Colonel and Mrs. J. D. Frost left on the 10:15 train South for their future home, Columbia, South Carolina.

Blair Tolle and Fannie Gollenstein wed at Marysville next Wednesday.

Geo. Linville, aged seventy-nine, and Serelda Shepherd, thirty-nine, married at Sardis.

BIRTHS.

To the wife of Frank Donaldson, at Clintonville, a son.

In New York, to the wife of Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., nee Virginia Fair, a daughter, who will become the heiress to the Vanderbilt millions.

In Carlisle, to the wife George Erion, nee DeJarnett, a son.

ARMY TO BE INCREASED

Bill Providing for a Maximum of 96,000 Men, Minimum 58,000.

Thirty Regiments of Infantry and Fifteen of Cavalry—Artillery to Be Organized Into Batteries of Heavy and Field Artillery.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The members of the house committee on military affairs will confer with Secretary Root in a day or two. Tuesday afternoon they went over the bill which has been known as the war department bill, drawn on lines suggested and approved by Secretary Root. The secretary expects to give further consideration to the bill, and then will send it to members of the committee. The war department bill provides for a maximum of 96,000 men and a minimum of 58,000, with 30 regiments of infantry, 15 regiments of cavalry, and a gradual increase of the infantry until at the end of five years there will be 18,000 men.

The artillery is not to be organized into regiments, but as batteries and organizations of heavy and field artillery. With the maximum army there are to be 150 men to each infantry regiment, making 1,850 men to a regiment. The maximum of a cavalry troop is to be 100 men. There is no provision for a lieutenant general in the war department, but under the present law the senior major general commanding would have the rank of lieutenant general. The war department bill does not give the same increase of major generals and brigadier generals as the Hull bill. The detailed staff provisions are an important feature of the measure.

It provides that hereafter vacancies in the staff, excepting the medical corps, pay corps and engineers, shall be filled by details from the line, such detailed officers being subject to line duty at any time. This is the same as the Hull bill of the last congress, and is earnestly favored by Secretary Root. The war department bill provides that the promotions shall be made from the regular army according to the present rank, down to and including the rank of captains.

The officers of the present volunteer army become officers in the regular army, but in the grades of first and second lieutenants only, the vacancies in the captains' rank being filled from the first lieutenants of the present regular establishment, the relative rank of the volunteer officers entering the regular establishment to be determined by seniority.

The committee will not hold another session until Friday, adjourning over Wednesday and Thanksgiving day.

TO KILL MCKINLEY.

Police of Hoboken Received a Letter Telling Them of a Plot to Assassinate the President.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Hoboken police have been warned that there is an anarchist plot to assassinate President McKinley. The information came in a letter through the mail. It reads:

"Sir—Having almost thoroughly assured myself of an anarchist plot against his excellency, McKinley, I consider it my duty to advise you of the name of one who is more than suspected of being a leader, whose name is found in the enclosed slip. He is a fugitive from justice, and a dangerous man, having been convicted several times, and on the last occasion being sentenced to five years' imprisonment for an anarchistic attempt."

Washington, Nov. 28.—Chief Wilkie, of the secret service, said that the government had no information whatever of the plot to kill President McKinley.

VESSEL BURNED AT SEA.

The Captain and Crew Rescued by a British Ship and Taken to Falmouth, Eng.

Falmouth, Eng., Nov. 28.—The British ship Lamarkshire, Capt. Douglass, from Iquique, August 18, for the channel, has arrived here, having on board Capt. Zino and 38 of the crew of the Italian steamer Assiduita, laden with coal, which left New Orleans on October 29, via Norfolk, November 6, for Genoa and Naples. The Assiduita was abandoned on fire November 16 in latitude 38 north, longitude 39 west. The crew of the Assiduita were transferred to the Lamarkshire in a heavy sea, during which two men were injured. When the Lamarkshire arrived here her supplies of food and water were exhausted.

Noted Editor Dead.

New York, Nov. 28.—Robert E. A. Dorr, president of the Mail and Express Co., and publisher of that paper, died at his home in this city on Tuesday. Death was due to a complication of diseases. Mr. Dorr had been in ill health for about six months.

Mrs. Kild McCoy Divorced.

New York, Nov. 28.—Justice Leventritt in the supreme court Tuesday confirmed the report of the referee granting a divorce to Mrs. Julia E. Selby from Norman Selby, known in pugilistic circles as "Kid" McCoy. The divorce was granted on statutory grounds.

Fought to a Draw.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 26.—Perry Queenan, of Chicago, and Young Peter Jackson fought 20 rounds here Tuesday night. Referee Bardell declared the fight a draw.

DEATH OF GEORGE W. WILSON.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue Succumbed to Disease—Interment at Hamilton, O.

Washington, Nov. 28.—George W. Wilson, commissioner of internal revenue, died here Tuesday morning. Mr. Wilson had been ill for weeks, and his death was not unexpected. Death was due to bronchial trouble, accompanied by disease of the kidneys and stomach. He died at the Riggs house, and his relatives were at his bedside. Mr. Wilson's home was in Hamilton, O. He was born on a farm in 1843, near Camden, O., and at 17 enlisted as a private in the 54th O. V. I. during the civil war. In 1881 he was married to Miss Jennette Miller, daughter of Abe Miller, of Hamilton, O.

Funeral services, conducted under the auspices of Columbia commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, of which Col. Wilson was a member, were held in the Riggs house at 1 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. No formal service will be held at Hamilton, O., except at the grave, where the Masonic burial service will be read by officers of the blue lodge at Hamilton.

HEAVY RAINFALL.

As a Consequence the Entire Ohio Valley Will Probably Be Flooded—The River Rising Rapidly.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 28.—The flood here was the result of a general fall of rain, averaging two inches, over the watersheds of the Allegheny and Monongahela valleys. This rain followed an average of three inches precipitation which fell last week. If this rain had fallen during the months of January, February or March, Pittsburgh would have been visited by the worst flood in its history, and the flood of 1884 would have, no doubt, been passed by several feet.

The entire Ohio valley will probably now be flooded, as the reports show that the Ohio has risen rapidly at many places.

The cleaning-up process was commenced Wednesday, and it will be Friday or Saturday before the flooded districts are put in a normal condition. The health boards of the two cities have taken a hand in the clearing of mud and debris from the residence districts, and, to avoid sickness or pestilence, disinfectants will be ordered placed in the cellars of all houses where the water has made its appearance.

WEST VIRGINIA FLOOD.

The Conditions of the River Above Parkersburg Are Alarming—The Little Kanawha Stationary.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 28.—While so far there is not much danger of this city experiencing a flood, the conditions of the river above this city are alarming. All day Tuesday inquiries have been made concerning the stage expected here and the reports sent out by the bureau of information have caused the people to take some precautions. At 6 o'clock Tuesday night the Ohio river was rising at the rate of three inches an hour and had reached a stage of 19.8. The prospects are for a stage of about 27 feet here Wednesday morning and by Thursday it is expected the highest point will be reached, when a crest of 35 feet will come. That will be just below the danger line, but fears of additional rains are entertained. The Little Kanawha reached a stationary stage Tuesday afternoon; and all danger from a flood along that valley has passed away. Its highest stage was at Creston, where it was 10.7.

NITRO-GLYCERINE EXPLOSION.

Three Boys Killed and Fourteen Wounded, Three of Whom May Die.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 28.—At Leesville, W. Va., 20 miles above Wheeling, on the Ohio river, a crowd of 20 boys had built a fire on the river bank from driftwood and were watching the rising waters. In a lot of driftwood one of the boys threw on the fire was a can partially filled with nitroglycerine. Immediately there was a terrific explosion, and three boys were killed and 14 wounded, of whom three may die.

The dead are Harmon Finley, aged 13, son of a poor widow; Willie Davis, aged 9 years, and Robert Finley, aged 18 years.

The injured are Harry and Herman Arbogast, Will Nangle, Will Blackburn, Wiley Cusick, James Jones, Theodore and Alex. Gilchrist, Charles Thomas, Ralph Hahn, Thomas Kinney, John Bone and Joe Webb, all boys under 21 years. Of these Will Nangle and Will Blackburn may die. As a result of the explosion an infant child of Mrs. Durig died a few minutes afterward.

Steam Tank Blew Up.

Grand Rapids, Wis., Nov. 28.—The blowing up of a steam tank at the Pioneer Wood Pulp Co. here resulted in the instant death of Christian Pagel and the probably fatal injury of Adolph Middlestadt, whose body was blown out onto the ice in the river.

Population of Nebraska.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The population of Nebraska as officially announced is 1,068,539, against 1,053,910 in 1890. This is an increase since 1890 of 9,629, or 0.9 per cent. The population in 1880 was 452,402, showing an increase of 609,508, or 134.0 per cent. from 1880 to 1890.

Populist Meeting Called.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 28.—Chairman Jo A. Parker, of the populist national committee, of this city, issued a call for a meeting of the national populist committee at St. Louis, December 29.

EARL LI SERIOUSLY ILL

Mandarins Are Taking Boatloads of Supplies to the Court.

A Letter From Emperor Kwang Su to Li Hung Chang Intercepted By the Germans—Contents Not Made Public.

London, Nov. 27.—Li Hung Chang, according to the Shanghai correspondent of the Morning Post, is seriously ill and has telegraphed for his adopted son, Li Ching Fang.

Shanghai, Nov. 27.—Native Christians from Fan Cheng Hsien on Han river, report that they saw 400 boats taking supplies for the court at Sian Fu, and that the mandarins have chartered every available boat for that purpose.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—"A letter from Emperor Kwang Su to Li Hung Chang has been intercepted by the Germans," says a private dispatch from Peking, "but its contents have not been made public. A small German detachment destroyed an Hsich Wang, sustaining no losses. The weather here is now severely cold."

Tien-Tsin, Nov. 27.—The military force in Tien-Tsin has been heavily reduced and it is not now believed that any considerable army will be maintained here during the winter unless the legations should withdraw from Peking here. While this has been agitated locally it is not likely that it will be done unless circumstances not now foreseen arise. The Germans have been moving steadily up country as fast as transports were obtained, and the Russian and American forces have been largely reduced.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—A dispatch received by the Navy League here, Tuesday, says that Col. Yorek's column reached Kalgan (about 100 miles northwest of Peking) November 18. The Chinese troops, numbering 3,000 men, fled. A battalion of Chinese imperial soldiers was disarmed.

The National Zeitung, discussing the punishment of the guilty officials in China, says:

"Germany must abide by the decision of the ministers at Peking." The Post says the peace negotiations will probably be finished at the first of the week.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Train on Cleveland & Pittsburgh Goes Into the River—Loss of Life Thought to Be Considerable.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 28.—At 1:15 Wednesday morning the night express for Cleveland on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh, was thrown in the river two miles below Beaver. The scanty information at hand shows one man drowned and four others badly hurt.

The accident occurred at a point where extensive fill-ins have been made, and it is supposed the high water had washed the fill from under the track and let the entire train of engine and five cars into the Ohio river. The officials say no passengers were hurt. The excitement was indescribable. The passengers were compelled to break their way out from the cars by breaking the windows and climbing to the bank.

At 3 a. m. one body had been taken from the wreck, that of Express Messenger Adam Casey, of Cleveland. Engineer Coughenour, of Cleveland, has both legs cut off and will die. Baggage-master James Allen, of Pittsburgh, skull crushed. Conductor Frank Bonnell, of Cleveland, arm broken. Porter John Taylor, of Cleveland, skull fractured. Pullman Conductor McIlwaine, internally injured.

It is thought many passengers are in the wreck which lies under ten feet of water. Ten passengers swam out and were taken to Conway with the dead and injured. The heavy rains were responsible for the wreck. The bank gave way while the train was running 30 miles an hour. The meager details from the wreck indicate that many are yet unaccounted for.

American Troops Ambushed.

Manila, Nov. 28.—A detachment of the 3d United States infantry was ambushed Sunday near Malolos. The Ladrone fired a volley at the Americans, killing two privates of Company F, and wounding three. The insurgents escaped into a swamp. Numerous insurgent bands have been dispersed and considerable quantities of stores destroyed in the province of Bulacan by Gen. Grant's mounted scouts.

Tommy Ryan Defeats Kid Carter.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Tommy Ryan, who now claims Chicago as his home, defeated Kid Carter, of Brooklyn, in six rounds at Tattersall's Tuesday night before a crowd of 5,000 people. Ryan had the best of the milling all the way, with the exception of two intervals in the first and second rounds, when Carter sent him to the mat with right swings.

Control of the Vanderhills.

New York, Nov. 28.—The election of Frederick W. Whitridge, of New York, to succeed Gen. Samuel Thomas as president of the Cincinnati Northern railway is regarded as a practical corroboration of recent rumors that this railroad has passed into the control of the Vanderhills.

Two Children Perish in Flames.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 28.—Two children perished and three dwellings occupied by miners were destroyed by fire in Plymouth, near here, at midnight.

THE MARKET CORNERED.

November Corn Reached Fifty Cents Monday at Chicago and Closed at Forty-Nine Cents.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—November corn touched 50 cents Monday. It made an advance of 5 cents for the day, of 10 cents a bushel for the week and of almost 15 cents within four weeks. Young Mr. Phillips sold "what corn changed hands at that point; shorts did the buying that advanced the market to the 50-cent quotation."

The 5-cent advance over the close of last week made the day the notable one so far for the campaign. A roar and a cheer gave notice of the half-dollar achievement, and there was a flocking toward the already overcrowded corn pit from all over the floor.

The tiptop figure was made in the first hour. November, starting at 46 cents, sold between 46 and 50 cents and closed at 49 cents. The slight final recession was, like the others which have been experienced, brought about by selling by the bull leaders.

The man with the corner in the hollow of his hand is apparently not ready to let it get away from him. He has watched the speculative careers of other men with corners, and believes that most of them lost because of their greed to extort the last penny. All the morning the little corn king stood on the edge of the pit and watched the ebb and flow of the battle. Whenever the clamorous "shorts" howled up the price in the face of unresponsive takers, he pushed to the front of the line and let out more corn.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The Annual Report of John Knox Taylor, Supervising Architect of the Treasury.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The annual report of John Knox Taylor, the supervising architect of the treasury, shows that one year ago the office had under its control 519 completed public buildings, inclusive of marine hospitals and quarantine stations. During the last year eight completed buildings have been added to the list. During the past year, says the report, the competitive system authorized by the act approved February 20, 1893, has had a practical test in its application to three cases, and the results attained have been satisfactory so far as designs and the preparation of working drawings and superintendence of the works so favorable a statement can not be made.

It is, therefore, suggested, with a view to improving the conduct of business under the act referred to, so as to secure all the advantages contemplated by that legislation, and cure the practical defects before mentioned, that the department, if legally warranted, should limit the services supplied by the architect successful under the competition to the furnishing of the design, the working drawings, full-size details and specifications, leaving the superintendence of actual construction under the charge of the supervising architect's office.

FLOOD AT PITTSBURGH.

Both the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers Rising—Coal Started for Southern Ports.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 27.—About 3,000,000 bushels of coal were started to southern points Monday. More would have been shipped had not the river been on such a rampage, making it unsafe. The river at 10 p. m. registered at the dam 21 feet and rising at the rate of 6 inches an hour. Both the Allegheny and Monongahela are still rising, the result of heavy rains along their entire length for the past 48 hours. River men expect 25 feet in the Ohio before a fall begins. The flood mark is 24 feet. While this stage will hardly be reached, every precaution is being taken to prevent loss if it should come.

As it is the cellars of residences in the lower districts of Allegheny are flooded and the tracks of the Pittsburgh & Western lower yard are under water and abandoned.

Several mills on the south side have been compelled to shut down. The loss of one life is attributed to high water. Frederick Kopman, aged 66 years, fell down the stairs and broke his neck.

At 2 o'clock Tuesday morning the mark at the dam was 23.7 feet and rising four inches an hour.

A Pitched Battle.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 27.—A fight between a Roman Catholic and a Greek at Wilkeson developed into a pitched battle with 200 Greeks against as many Roman Catholics, the fighters on both sides being coal miners. Clubs and iron bars were used, and several heads were broken. Finally revolvers were brought to use and bullets caused the mob to flee. No one was killed.

Want Creed Changed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 27.—W. R. Crabbe, the Pittsburgh member of the revision committee of the Presbyterian general assembly, states that all of the presbyteries have voted on the question of revision of the creed, resulting in the revisionists receiving 72 per cent. of the vote cast.

Burial of Famous Composer.

London, Nov. 27.—The remains of Sir Arthur Sullivan, the composer, who died suddenly on Thursday morning at his home here, were buried Tuesday in St. Paul's cathedral.

Siberian Prisons Abolished.

Siberia is no longer to be a penal colony. The imperial decree abolishing the former status is the result of the building of the Trans-Siberian railroad. Nothing can compare to the rapid settlement of the vast Siberian plains by the rushing farmers, unless it be the rapid growth achieved by that famous dyspepsia "cure," Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Try it for constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness or flatulency, if you would be well.

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Pen Picture for Women.

"I am so nervous, there is not a well inch in my whole body. I am so weak at my stomach and have indigestion horribly, and palpitation of the heart, and I am losing flesh. This headache and backache nearly kills me, and yesterday I nearly had hysterics; there is a weight in the lower part of my bowels bearing down all the time, and pains in my groins and thighs; I cannot sleep, walk, or sit, and I believe I am diseased all over; no one ever suffered as I do."

This is a description of thousands of cases which come to Mrs. Pinkham's attention daily. An inflamed and ulcerated condition of the neck of the womb can produce all of these symptoms.

toms, and no woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is absolutely no need of it. The subject of our portrait in this sketch, Mrs. Williams of Englishtown, N.J., has been entirely cured of such illness and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the guiding advice of Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass.

No other medicine has such a record for absolute cures, and no other medicine is "just as good." Women who want a cure should insist upon getting Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when they ask for it at a store. Anyway, write a letter to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your troubles. Her advice is free.

PAIN OPENED HER SKULL

Mrs. Lasher's Remarkable Story—Dr. Greene's Nervura Cured Her.

Mrs. FRED C. LASHER, JR.

The case of Mrs. Fred C. Lasher, Jr., a well-known woman of Westport, N. Y., is one of the most interesting on record. It is an actual fact that headaches caused her head to split.

"For thirteen years," she says, "I suffered from terrible headaches night and day, until the bones of my skull opened so that the doctor could lay his thumb right into the opening on to my brain. Two doctors attended me and claimed that I was on the verge of insanity. I was under their care for nine years, but got no relief. Then I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and inside of a year the bones of my head had taken their natural shape again."

That Mrs. Lasher's statements are true is vouched for by reliable men of Westport, and by a Justice of the Peace there. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured Mrs. Lasher when all other remedies failed, and cures thousands of suffering women every year. If your head aches, if you cannot sleep and are weak and nervous, remember that this great curative agent, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, will make you well and strong.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a physician's prescription, formulated from a discovery after years of investigation and experiment. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, is the discoverer. He can be consulted free personally or by letter.

SENATOR DAVIS DEAD.

After Two Months Illness He Passed Away at St. Paul, Minn.

Senators Nelson, Cullom, Lodge, Foraker, Wolcott, Morgan, Daniel, Clark and Pettigrew Will Represent Senate at Funeral.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28.—United States Senator Cushman Kellogg Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations of the senate, died at his home in this city Tuesday evening at 8:48 o'clock, after an illness of two months. He had suffered greatly during his sickness and gradually sank away, being unconscious for several hours before death, and so far as could be known, suffering no pain. Monday, appreciating the approach of the end, Mrs. Davis sent for the venerable T. H. M. Villiers Appleby, archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Minnesota, and Rev. Theodore Sedgwick, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Upon the arrival of Archdeacon Appleby and Mr. Sedgwick, Senator Davis was for a time sufficiently rational to express his grateful appreciation of their ministrations.

For more than a week it has been known that the death of Senator Davis was certain to occur within a short time. Although the bulletins issued by Dr. Stone from day to day made no positive statement to this effect, they nevertheless gave the impression that the case was a hopeless one.

However, the announcement came as a profound shock to the friends and fellow townsmen of the distinguished statesman, who had been hoping against hope. The senator's devoted wife, who has been in constant attendance upon his sick bed, had never lost hope.

The senator in his moments of lucidity expressed a strong determination to recover, and within a week told United States District Attorney Evans, who had been admitted to see him, that he was positive he would soon be well. Indeed, it is the general belief that the senator's iron will is all that has kept him alive for the past week. The serious kidney affliction which developed on November 11 had refused to yield to treatment, and his weakened frame was unable to withstand the poisons left in his system by these organs failing to perform their functions.

Senator Frye, president pro tem. of the United States senate, has been notified of the senator's death, and his wishes with reference to the funeral arrangements will be complied with by the family.

Gov. Lind said Tuesday night that all the state buildings would be closed Wednesday and flags displayed at half mast out of respect to the senator's memory, and that the customary period of mourning would be observed. Further than this the governor was unable to state what would be done by the state of Minnesota to honor her distinguished son.

Among those who have been mentioned as likely to succeed Senator Davis are: Former Senator W. D. Washburn, Thomas Lowry, the street railway magnate; F. H. Peavy, the millionaire grain elevator man; Congressman Fletcher, all of Minneapolis; Director of the Census W. R. Merriam; and State Senator H. E. Stevens, of St. Paul. Gov. Lind, who is a democrat, will, of course, have the naming of some one to fill the vacancy in the interval between now and the time the legislature elects. It is understood that the governor will not name a senator of his own political faith. It is stated that he will name former Senator W. D. Washburn to fill the vacancy.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The death of Senator Davis, although expected, came as a shock to his colleagues in the senate, who are gathering here preparatory to the meeting of congress. The senator's genial manner had endeared him to his colleagues and others. Many genuine expressions of regret were heard when his death became known. President McKinley was informed of the senator's death and sent a telegram of condolence to the widow.

Sergeant-at-Arms Ransdell, of the senate, Tuesday night sent notifications to the following senators, requesting them to represent the senate at the funeral: Nelson, Cullom, Lodge, Foraker, Wolcott, Morgan, Daniel, Clark, of Wyoming, and Pettigrew.

Crew Probably Drowned.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Word has been received here that the overdue schooner Czar, of this city, has been wrecked off the Mexican coast. Her crew, composed of Capt. Wagner and eight men, have probably been drowned. Wm. Olsen, owner of the Czar, Wednesday received a telegram which said that the wreck of the schooner had been sighted drifting off the coast near China, about 60 miles from San Blas. The Czar left San Blas for this city on September 20, and is 40 days overdue.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Gus Ruhlin and Peter Maher were on Tuesday matched to fight six rounds before the Penn. Athletic club in this city on December 17. The men will battle for 60 per cent. of the gross receipts, with a guarantee of $3,500.

Wealthy Orange Grower Dead.

Leesburg, Fla., Nov. 28.—Edwin T. Pepper, one of the wealthiest orange growers in this section of Florida, committed suicide. He came to Florida 18 years ago from Van Buren county, Michigan.

SELLS ON THE STAND.

The Showman Saw His Wife Only Three Times Before He Married Her—His Early Life.

Columbus, O., Nov. 27.—The Sells divorce suit was resumed Monday morning before Judge Evans, with more interest being manifested by the spectators than at any previous stage of the sensational case. This was due to the expectancy that Peter Sells, the plaintiff, would take the stand and detail how the revelation of his wife's alleged infidelity came upon him.

J. F. Hatcher, hollow-ware manufacturer, testified he had participated in Peter Sells' penny-ante, dime-limit poker games, and ex-Chief Justice Joseph P. Bradbury, of the Ohio Supreme court, was among those he met in those games. Mrs. Sells brought in the lunch of sandwiches and beer at these games. This was at the mansion.

Mary Steek and Clara O'Brien, telephone operators, were subpoenaed as witnesses for the plaintiff, and then Peter Sells himself took the witness stand.

He said he was 55 years old last April, and was born on a farm south of Columbus. He gave the genealogy of the Sells family, saying he had 10 brothers and sisters. Sells then gave the story of his early life. He began as a newsboy in Cleveland, then was an office boy and later circulation manager for the Cleveland Leader.

He was conductor in 1861 on the first street car line in Cleveland. Next he worked for Rockefeller in the oil regions of Pennsylvania. From there he went to Burlington, Ia., and later to Chicago, where he sold strawberries in the markets. Next he went in the auction business in Chicago, and later transferred his business to Columbus. With his brothers, he started the Sells circus in 1872.

In 1876 he met Mary A. Luker, his present wife, in Medina, Knox county, Mo., where her father kept a hotel. He acknowledged being smitten on first sight, and wrote to Miss Luker after leaving Medina. This correspondence ended in their marriage in January, 1878. He only saw Miss Luker three times before the wedding day. There was no license, Miss Luker informing Sells that it was not necessary in Missouri.

There is a dispute as to the date of the marriage, Peter claiming it was January 21, 1878, and Mrs. Sells contending that it was January 23. They came to Columbus to reside immediately after their marriage. Sells said his wife wanted to travel with the show, but he objected, because, as advance agent, he could not be with the show.

Nothing was said about her riding a horse in the circus. Two weeks after the show started he returned to the show at East Liberty and was surprised to see his wife in a scarlet costume riding in the parade. He protested, and she promised to ride no more, and he never knew of her riding after this one occasion.

Mrs. Sells claims in her answer that she was compelled to ride by her husband. From ten days after the East Liberty episode Sells said his wife never traveled with the show, except when he was with her on occasional times.

Columbus, O., Nov. 28.—An unusually large crowd was present at the Sells divorce case Tuesday. Mrs. Sells was on hand early, but looked sad and careworn, the first time since the trial began.

Mr. Sells had fully recovered from the breakdown of Monday and coolly submitted to cross-examination. It brought out the relations he is charged with having with Mrs. White Andrews. He admitted that he was intimate with her from 1869 to 1874, and all prior to his marriage.

That he had broken off all relations with her before his marriage, and that he told her all about it before they were married. He had seen the woman but twice since their marriage, and each time it was accidental, and he told his wife about it each time. Once was when he and his brother bought a piece of property and Mrs. Andrews proved to be occupant of it.

Continuing his cross-examination, Sells said he had never been drunk but twice since his marriage, and he had never played cards or a gambling device in a gambling house. Being a business man closely confined to his work, he needed recreation, and so he played both cards and billiards at his own home. Incidentally he said Lyons was a very poor player, so poor in fact that he did not enjoy playing with him, either cards or billiards.

"You understand," said he, "that to make it interesting to you, you must have for opponent some one who is somewhere near your match."

Outside of his business his social friends were mostly masons. He met them at their dinners, etc. There were some bad masons, he said.

"Name them," said Attorney Huling.

"Well, you are not one of them," he said in mind, because I don't know whether you are a mason or not," was witness' answer.

Condition of the Treasury.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Monday's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $137,752,218; gold, $92,219,355.

Both Are Dead.

Daisy, Ga., Nov. 27.—E. Johnson and Robert Hatten had a misunderstanding, and Hatten shot Johnson through the neck. Johnson fell, but raised himself long enough to shoot Hatten through the head. Both dead.

CHICKAMAUGA PARK.

The Number of Historical Tablets Established During the Year Was 160—Number of Monuments in Place Is 228.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Gen. H. V. Boynton, chairman of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga national military park commission, has submitted his annual report to the secretary of war. The report says:

"The work of establishing the park and its maintenance has continued uninterruptedly during the year ending September 30, 1900, and has been carried on strictly in accordance with the plan for dividing the funds appropriated by congress submitted to you by the commission and approved.

"It appears from the engineers report that we now have 67 miles of improved roads which cost an average of $2,002 per mile about 4 1/2 miles of which was constructed during the past year; that $15,120 has been expended in that time in road construction and betterments.

"There are now erected on the Chickamauga field 107 field guns, mounted on iron carriages to imitate the patterns in use during the civil war, marking 43 union battery positions, and 94 field guns, similarly mounted, marking 39 confederate battery positions. On the Chattanooga field 45 guns mounted as above, mark ten union and ten confederate battery positions here.

"Historical tablets erected during the year 163, foundations for state monuments—constructed 1; excavated 1; guns mounted 12.

"The balance on hand October 1, 1899, was $46,583. The appropriations for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, including a specific appropriation of $10,000 for completing the Lafayette road extension were $70,000. These, with two other small items aggregating $2.33, make the total receipts for the year ending September 30, 1900, $166,585. The total expenditures to and including that date have been $53,286, leaving a balance October 1, 1900, of $63,317."

Gen. Boynton calls attention to the inspection last month by the veterans of the several armies interested of all the historical work thus far completed on the park with a view to the correction of such errors as might have been made in inscriptions upon tablets, monuments and location of battle lines.

The results of the inspection, participated in by prominent members of the armies which took part in the actions as well as commissioners from the states whose troops were engaged were of the most satisfactory character.

Of the 228 monuments only two were claimed to be wrongly placed, and those who preferred the claim as to one of these were not aware that after most exhaustive study of the claim, the secretary of war had sustained the present location.

Of the 341 state markers only two were claimed to be out of position. Of these one had been placed by the commission with the knowledge that it was only approximately correct, awaiting the very information now secured to correct its position.

IN MIDAIR.

Blast Furnace Employee Suspended By His Jacket 100 Feet From the Ground For an Hour.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Suspended in midair by his jacket 100 feet from the ground, Andrew Anderson, employed on a blast furnace in the Illinois steel works, hung for an hour Monday, while employees of the works tried to rescue him. Finally by means of extension ladders the man was taken from his perilous position and, exhausted, carried to the ground. He was taken to the company's hospital, where he soon recovered.

The accident which placed Anderson in the perilous position resulted in seriously and probably fatally injuring three of his companions. They were all working on a scaffold at the top of a new blast furnace, when the scaffolding broke, falling with its human burden. Twenty feet from the top of the blast furnace Anderson's jacket caught on a short bolt extending two inches from the surface, and his rapid descent was suddenly checked. His companions crashed through the network of scaffolding to the ground and were picked up unconscious and bleeding by other employees and taken to the company's hospital.

Clerk Charged With Theft.

New York, Nov. 27.—Word was received at police headquarters Monday to the effect that a clerk of the Seaboard Air line had been arrested at Fernandina, Fla., for the theft of $50,000 from that line. It is said that the money taken by this clerk was lost through speculation with the firm of C. B. Lawrence & Co., that recently failed here, and the principals of which are now under arrest.

King Oscar Improving.

Stockholm, Nov. 27.—King Oscar is steadily improving. He took a long walk Monday in the royal garden.

Porto Rican Commissioner.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Nov. 27.—Senor Federico de Getulio, Porto Rican commissioner to the United States congress, sailed for the United States Monday on board the steamer Capt. Sampson, which is due to arrive at New York on December 1.

Official Vote of Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 27.—The official vote of Virginia in the last presidential election, as ascertained Monday by the state board of canvassers, was: For Bryan, 146,179; McKinley, 117,151; Woolley, 2,167.

ART IN ARCHITECTURE.

DESIGNED AND WRITTEN

ESPECIALLY FOR THIS PAPER.

THIS ten-room residence will cost $2,800. The foundation is rubble stone, and the construction is of the very best. The height of the first story is 9 1/2 feet; second story, nine feet; basement, seven feet. All material and details used in the erection of this home will be in keeping with the standard specifications, and the following is the best method telling how this work should be executed:

Roof Boarding—Roof boarding is generally eight or ten boards, laid about one inch apart. A much warmer house, however, can be obtained with matched lumber, the same as for the outside walls. Over this roof and wall boarding should always be laid good building paper. This may be a rosin-sized and tarred building paper, or a felt lining paper. On general principles, the thicker the paper the better and warmer the house will be, for really the sheathing boards enter this paper lining are to keep out the wind which might enter through crevices in the wood work. This paper should be, whenever possible, continued from the sill of the house, up the walls behind the cornice, over the plate and on top of obtain "dimension" shingles for such work as a more regular appearance is secured by their use. They are generally laid about five inches to the weather, and should have at least two nails to each shingle. Special care should be used against all window frames that a clean, true joint is made on the edges of the hingle against the frame—if necessary, nailing or sawing the shingle that comes against the frame, so that it will lay close. Cause the corners of the house to be shingled, it is by all means preferable to tin the corners, bending the tin under the butt of the shingles, otherwise the shingles on the corners will be apt to split off or curl, thus making a very bad-looking job indeed. The shingles as well as siding should lay into the sills and all members of cornices.

Roof Shingling—The shingles should start in a double course at the gutter or lower edge of the eaves, projecting about one-half inch, and the next and following course should be laid at not to exceed five inches to the weather, carefully breaking joints and splitting shingles over eight inches in width and nailing each shingle firmly with two nails. All hips and ridges should either have a ridge roll or the hips should be tinned, with the tin bent under the butt of each shingle, carefully nailed. The ridge should have a ridge board well nailed down upon the top of the last course of the shingles, which would be cut off.

MODERN TWENTY-EGHT HUNDRED DOLLAR RESIDENCE.

the roof to the ridge, the cornice being put on after the paper, so that protection against the cold is obtained from the sill of the house to the ridge pole. This paper should also be placed under all casings around openings and doors, and corners. It should be carefully fastened to keep it from tearing in the wind until siding or other walling has been applied.

Cornices—In framing for the cornice, furring boards should be used, so as to provide a solid nailing for all members of the cornice. If gutters are specified or shown in the plans, they should have a pitch, so as to carry the water to conductors or openings, at points shown on plans. The gutter should have good, solid sides and bottom with an even pitch, to receive the tin work. On the finish work of cornice all joints should be made close and tight, and each member should be well and securely nailed to the furring, so that no buckling or shrinking will occur, and when the cornice is finished all members will be perfectly straight and true. All lumber for the cornice should be perfectly dry, and under no circumstances should green lumber be used, as it tends up and leaves openings through which the cold enters.

Outside Finish—Siding, or clapboards, may be used of pine, cedar or spruce. It generally comes in two sizes, which are known as six-inch and four-inch, the six-inch generally being laid 4 1/2 inches to the weather, and the four-inch 2 1/2 inches to the weather. Cedar siding is not quite so good as pine or spruce, as it splits very easily; and of the three kinds, good, soft, white pine may be said to make the best. Siding, by rights, should be free from all knots,

In the valleys the tin should run at least eight inches under the shingles at each side, and should be opened not less than two inches at the top and three inches at the bottom.

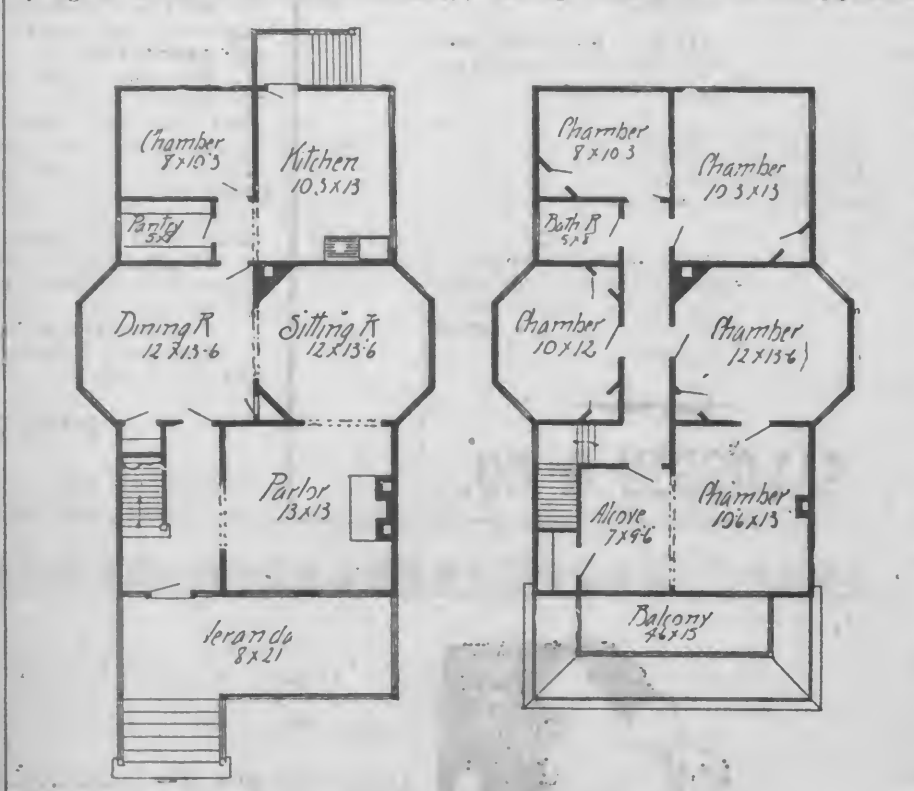

Where the shingles come in contact with the chimneys there should be lead flashings let into the brick work and tin counter flashing shingles into each corner, with the lead flashing let down over the tin counter flashing.

Inside Finish—Before any finish is delivered at the house, the building should be thoroughly cleaned and plastering absolutely dry, as kind-dried finish will take in moisture like a sponge. If, after the finish has been delivered, there comes a wet day, with damp wind blowing, it will take in moisture from the damp air, and, of course, afterward shrink, so that too great care cannot be taken in seeing that the house is first absolutely dry, before any finish is delivered, and the second place, after it has been delivered, in protecting it from the circulation of damp air, or rainy days in closing up the building, covering with tarpaulins, or something of that sort.

If possible, it is a very good plan to have the furnace or heating apparatus connected up, so that on cold, damp or foggy days a little heat can be introduced into the building to offset the effects of the outside atmosphere.

These are important matters; so important that I would prefer to overlook almost anything else. If the finish is ever so good and the work ever so well done, a little carelessness in this respect will offset it all.

Setting Frames—The first thing general-

PLANS OF FIRST AND SECOND FLOORS

sage, or pitch. This is sometimes hard to obtain, and where strictly insisted on will cause, perhaps, a difference of eight or ten dollars per thousand feet in expense. Grades of lumber differ very generally in various sections of the country. The grading in Minneapolis yards is acknowledged to rank higher than that of any other section. From Minneapolis yards what is known as "C" siding will give very satisfactory results, and is a much good for a house of reasonable cost. "D" Siding is very frequently used on very fair work. In other sections this grade would not answer for the reason that many yards buying their lumber in a large market like Minneapolis, regrade, calling what would be second grade in Minneapolis their No. 1. I mention this simply to call attention to the fact that what would be a poor grade to use in one section would be amply sufficient in another. Nothing less than the grades established by the rules of the Mississippi Lumbermen's association should be accepted, as these are minimum. This applies also to all framing and finished lumber. The sills of all windows and the bottom members of all cornices should be grooved three-eighths of an inch to receive the siding on the under side, and the stool and sill should fit into each other so as to be weather-proof in a driving rainstorm. The siding should be fitted up close to all casings, and corner boards should be free from all hammer marks. This applies to corner work as well.

No shingles are used for the outer finish, they are laid as called for in the plans, and it is generally desirable to by advisable is to set the frames on the interior of the building, and in this connection it might be said that the doors should not be delivered at the building, if it is possible to be so arranged, until after the house is in place—that is, the house framed up.

The frames should first be set around the building at the openings where they will be required, care being taken to see that no mistakes are made in this respect. Special care should also be taken that the sash are fitted closely on to the sills, so that the meeting rails will come directly opposite, as any unevenness here would not only look bad, but cause trouble in fitting the sash locks. The frames should be level on the top and on a line with each other, and the sides should be straightened up with a straight-edge and thoroughly nailed to the studs. Special pains should be taken to see that they are "out of wind" with each other, and are parallel in width from top to bottom. At this point it is also desirable to fit the sash in all the windows so that the house may be closed up. At this stage it is important to see that the sash are closely fitted into the frames and special pains taken to fit them to the sills. Carpenters are apt to plane them very liberally, so as not to be given the trouble of trimming them over again if they commence to stick. When sash are so trimmed, they will afterward rattle, and in the winter may cause the house to be cold on account of fitting too closely in the frame.

Hanging Sash—The sash should be carefully balanced with iron or lead weights and hung with the best leather cord.

We are authorized to announce MISS NELLIE B. BEDFORD, as a candidate for Superintendent of Public Schools for Bourbon county subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Hicks' Weather Prediction.

In every probability December will bring many hard winter storms and blizzards.

The first period of storm and general perturbation will fall between the 3d and 6th, during which time the moon at north extreme.

About the 8th to 11th is another period in which storm conditions will arise and culminate in more storms of rain, wind and snow.

The regular storm period extend from the 18th to the 23d.

From about Tuesday the 18th to Sunday the 23 in every probability there will be storms of great severity.

Thunder and possible gales and tornadoes in the extreme South, the high barometer, blizzard and cold wave rushing down from the north west will send the boreal blasts in greater or less intensity to the borders of the Southern gulf. Rain will turn to destructive sleet storms over much of the country.

At the conclusion of the general storms of this period, all the north side of this continent will be fiercely visited with arctic winds and temperatures, and plentiful supplies of sleet, ice and snow will cover the Canadas and most parts of the northern and central States.

From the 25th to 28th is a reactionary storm period, with moon on the celestial equator on the 27th. On and about that date a marked falling barometer and rowened rain and snow will return. The probabilities are very great that unsettled and stormy weather will prevail over much of this country, and the globe generally, during the remainder of this month.

"ANTISEPTIC" will make your breath pure and sweet.

JAMES W. PARKER, of Nicholas county, will represent Central University in the State oratorical contest. Graham Smedley, of Millersburg, will contest for honors, as the representative of the Georgetown College.

Compliment To the Governor.

Gov. Beckham has received from Secretary Hay a commission issued by President McKinley appointing him a member of the Committee on National Celebration of the Establishment of the Seat of Government in the District of Columbia.

Land Sales in Clark.

Rev. J. W. Fitch sold 135 acres, on Eaton Pike, to a Mr. Clayton, of Rowan county, at $115 per acre.

Mrs. Amanda Rice purchased from Elder J. M. Rash 85 acres, near Tanner's store, for $3,160.

B. A. Tracey bought of Dr. D. S. Price 159 acres on Long Branch, at $17.50 per acre.

J. D. Soursley sold 100 acres on Four Mile Road to J. M. Owen at $75 per acre, and to J. S. Wade 76 acres at $50 per acre.

David Tanner sold to W. S. Fox 57 acres on Iron Works Road, for $3,000.

I have a few good buggies yet on hand which I close out at cost.

JAMES H. HAGGARD.

Pass Him Around.

The public should be charitable, but THE NEWS is called upon to mention a case seen at the depot yesterday—a legless man—asking alms with a hand full of money and badly intoxicated. A deaf man did a good business here this week, claiming to be an editor, train dispatcher, baker, plumber and a follower of numerous occupations.

The great Axtell who once sold for $105,000 sold Wednesday at the Fasig-Tipton sale in New York, for $14,700.

THE Paris Printing and Stationary Co. will have an opening on Dec. 7 and 8 of beautiful Christmas goods. Don't fail to attend. (It)

THE late George R. Griffith, of Cincinnati, who was Clerk of Board of Education, of that city has been found to be $100,000 short in his account.

PARIS friends of Mr. Thomas Lewis rejoice to hear that he has recovered from the symptoms of appendicitis and is able to leave the Good Samaritan Hospital for his home.

THE Mason County Medical Society held its regular meeting at Mayslick on Tuesday, and were handsomely entertained by Dr. H. M. Davis and his accomplished wife, formerly Miss Emma Hukill, of this city.

I am ready to show the nicest line of Christmas goods ever brought to Paris, and I cordially invite the public to call and inspect the articles I now have on display. You can not fail to place too strong an emphasis on the fact that the early buyers get the choicest articles. Come in now and make your selections and have your presents put aside.
Respectfully,
J. T. HINTON.

Hog Thieves.

Thieves in a wagon drove to the farm of W. O. Butler, on the Bethlehem pike, Wednesday night, killed five hogs and hauled them away, leaving entrails to the owner.

A Frightful Mistake.

A FRIGHTFUL mistake Tuesday morning before daylight near Mt. Gilead, in Mason, Garr Goodman, 14, killed Gabe Smithers, and old man.

Smithers had promised to kill hogs for Goodman and knocked to awake them, Goodman asking "Who's there?" and on receiving no answer thought it a burglar and fired with fatal effect.

Democratic Committee.

At a meeting of the newly elected Democratic Committee, Geo. W. Morrow was elected Chairman and Joseph Williams, Secretary. The committee will meet Monday to select a date for the primary election.

Notice To the Public.

The Bourbon Laundry Company wishes to inform its patrons that on and after January 1, 1901, they will inaugurate a cash basis, so we can give our entire time to the laundry work. Thanking you for past favors, and hoping to continue the same, we remain, yours,
BOURBON LAUNDRY CO.

Circuit Court.

Circuit Court adjourned Wednesday until Tuesday. The following cases being disposed of, viz:

Commonwealth vs. Wm. Gillispie, shooting in sudden heat and passion, $200 and costs.

Same vs. W. D. Sledge, carrying concealed weapons, two cases, $25 and ten days in jail for each offense.

Frank Jones, selling liquor without license, $50 and costs.

Henry Myers, same charge, $50 and costs.

Harriett Crawford, same charge, $50 and costs.

Commonwealth vs. L. & N. R. R., two indictments for maintaining a nuisance in keeping water tank near Duncan avenue crossing dismissed, the railroad company having moved tank to passenger depot.

The following cases have been assigned for trial:

10TH DAY, THURSDAY, DECEMBER.

Geo. Alexander, vs. Northern Bank, of Kentucky.

J. Walker Muir, vs. L. & N. R. R.

The Shropshire Company vs. Mrs. Frances Shropshire.

11TH DAY FRIDAY DEC. 7TH.

Sarah Beatty vs. Amanda Simpson.

J. A. Eperon vs. Lyle Jacoby.

The Grand Jury adjourned until Tuesday December 4th, without reporting any indictments.

Girl Found Dead In Bed.

Yesterday was a sad Thanksgiving for James Whitlock and wife, of South Main street. The family retired in perfect health Wednesday night and awoke yesterday morning to find Mary Ophelia Whitlock, the eleven year old daughter dead in her bed. The child was in excellent health Wednesday night, but suffered some kind of convulsion during the night which caused her death.

Coroner Roberts returned a verdict of death from unknown cause. He requested an autopsy, but the parents declined to have it performed.

Funeral services this afternoon at two o'clock at the residence by Rev. F. J. Cheek.

"CHICK" PIPER was tried before U. S. Commissioner Hill, in Lexington, on the charge of conspiring to bribe legal voters and was cleared.

Persons who have had portraits made will please call and get same at my gallery.
L. GRINNAN.

Revenue Assignments.

Among the persons assigned for duty in Bourbon and Bourbon men assigned elsewhere are: J. P. Hutchcraft, N. A. Moore, Hugh A. Daniel, G. G. White Co.; John M. Jamason, Labrot & Graham; W. B. Allen, W. A. Johnson, C. T. Throckmorton, H. R. Croston, J. M. Walker, D. C. Berryman, Martin O'Neal, Paris Distilling Co.; J. M. Burbridge, Peacock Distilling Co.; Wm. W. Cherry, Bourbon Distilling Co.

A Coal Worker Dies.

Jack McAfee, colored, employed at L. & N. coal chutes, this city, died suddenly at his home in Claysville. He was apparently in perfect health. Coroner H. H. Roberts and Dr. J. S. Wallingford held an autopsy and found that a small ulcer had eroded a bronchial artery, which ruptured into the plural cavity, causing the man to bleed to death from internal hemorrhage. This is a very remarkable case in that there had never been a symptom to indicate his dangerous malady.

"ANTISEPTALINE" will harden and heal bleeding gums.

Thanksgiving Services.

The regular Thanksgiving union Services was held yesterday at the Second Presbyterian Church at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Dr. E. M. Pearce opened the service with prayer, and Elder Lloyd Darsie delivered the discourse. Rev. F. J. Cheek also made a prayer and the benediction was pronounced by Eld. J. S. Sweeney.

"ANTISEPTALINE" will prevent the filling from dropping out of your teeth.

Card of Thanks.

I take this method of thanking the people of Paris and vicinity for a liberal share of their patronage in the past eight years, and also informing them that after December 1, 1900, I will give up my practice entirely and devote my time to the manufacture of "Antiseptaline," a mouth wash that I have compounded for the prevention of decay in teeth. I feel that I can serve more people and render a greater aid to suffering humanity in this way than in general practice of my profession. I am not working against the dental profession, but I am working for the best interests of the entire human race. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." "Antiseptaline" is guaranteed to prevent the teeth from decaying, heal sensitive and bleeding gums, and make the breath pure and sweet. It is made of very expensive chemicals, but I have placed it within reach of everybody. It is put up in two-ounce bottles, with full directions for use, and will sell at 25 cents, and will be for sale by all leading druggists. Respectfully,
DR. J. R. ADAIR.

The Patriot Powder

By T. C. Harbaugh.

EVERY reader of the stirring history of the American revolution knows what a fierce battle ground was the Mohawk valley. Lying open, as it did, to Indian and Tory incursions, its patriot inhabitants were constantly in a state of fear, and many who were true to the colonies were compelled to smother their feelings in order to save both life and property.

Among the American families who during the struggle occupied an humble house in the heart of the valley was one named Whitton.

Some time before the opening of hostilities the childless couple had adopted an orphan boy, who, although American by birth, bore the name of Gottlieb for a German grandfather.

Gottlieb Whitton, as he was known, was a smart boy of 15, short and stout, and the possessor of a nature which was hard to ruffle. Up with the lark and to bed with the sun, the boy was known everywhere in the neighborhood for his industry, and parents were wont to hold him up as an example to their less thrifty children.

The Whittons were favorably disposed to the American cause, though they had succeeded in making no enemies of their Tory neighbors.

The house in the valley stood on the trail to Fort Stanwix, an American outpost, and the spies of both parties were almost constantly crossing the neutral ground.

One night Gottlieb Whitton looked from the small window of his attic and witnessed a very unusual proceeding. The moon was a pale crescent in the sky, and the drifting clouds still further dimmed the little light it afforded.

He saw a man carrying something into the house from the garden that came almost up to the back door. It was not Mr. Whitton, and the proceeding was enough to arouse the boy's suspicion.

Again and again the strange man made little trips between house and garden, each time bringing from the latter something bulky, which he carried in his arms.

At last the man disappeared in the garden and did not return.

The boy waited and watched a long time for him, and at last crept back to his hard bed in the corner and fell asleep.

The next day the farmer told Gottlieb that he and his wife intended to visit some relatives at one end of the valley, and concluded by saying that he would have to remain at home and keep house two or three days.

Once it was on the boy's tongue to mention the strange movements he had witnessed the previous night, but fearing to let Mr. Whitton know that he had played the spy he let the opportunity pass.

When noon came the boy found himself alone with a dinner of his own getting, and at sundown he had fed the cattle and shut up the house.

His adopted parents at parting had cautioned him to admit nobody, and Mrs. Whitton had taken care to say that she had placed all the food he needed in the pantry, and that she had locked the cellar till their return.

The boy went up to his bed in the attic as the birds retired to their nests in the trees.

Falling asleep almost directly, he passed through the first sound slumber, and then lay wide awake on the cot.

Suddenly there came up from below, and into the loft through the open window, the hum of voices.

Gottlieb crept to the window and looked out. A large tree grew in front of the house, shading the long porch during the day, and throwing its branches over the sloping roof.

There was a figure under the tree which was not there when Gottlieb crept up to bed. While he watched it was joined by another which came from the porch, and then the low voices were resumed.

The next minute Gottlieb went downstairs in his bare feet. The boy knew that the men outside contemplated mischief of some kind, and all at once he thought of the mysterious proceeding of the night before, and coupled with them Mrs. Whitton's remark about the cellar.

stealthily footsteps came across the porch, and found the patriot boy listening at the door.

"Are you sure the boy sleeps in the garret?" asked a voice.

"That's his nest, as everybody knows," was the answer. "I know where the bolt is, and here I have the gun ready. It will not take us ten minutes to saw out a hand-hole, and then we're inside."

"Do you think we'll find the Yankee powder in the cellar?"

"It is nowhere else. We've tracked it to Jonas Whitton's house, and it hasn't gone onto Fort Stanwix yet. A sly fox is Jonas, but hereafter he can't blow hot and cold with the same breath, for everybody will know how he hid Yankee powder in his cellar."

Like a flash the whole truth dawned on the boy in the dark. The numerous trips between garden and house were now explained.

There was powder in the cellar, and it was patriot powder at that, intended to be smuggled into Fort Stanwix at the first favorable opportunity.

Gottlieb felt his heart leap with a desire to save the powder. He knew how sorely the little garrison of patriots needed the hidden article, and he resolved that if he could prevent it, it should not fall into the hands of the Tories, to which party the men on the outside evidently belonged.

He did not have much time for reflection when the gunlet began its work on the door. He must act quickly.

Stepping to one corner of the room, he found a rifle which always stood there, and in a moment he had carried it to the door.

"What do you want?" suddenly asked the boy, in a voice sufficiently loud to be heard by the men outside.

In an instant the boring stopped.

"If you want to come in, why don't you knock?" continued Gottlieb.

The men consulted in whispers, the purport of which Gottlieb could not catch; but a moment later a fist struck the door, rapping three times.

"Hello, there, boy!" cried a rough voice. "You know now that we want to come in. Why don't you open the door?"

"I don't open at night to strangers," replied Gottlieb, undaunted.

The men laughed together.

"You'll save the door if you draw the bolt," said one. "We want to look into Jonas Whitton's cellar."

"It is locked, and Martha Whitton carries the key," answered Gottlieb.

"She is a careful dame, Martha is!" was the derisive retort. "She does well to go away from home with a lot of Yankee powder in the cellar. The trail leads to this very house, and there can be no mistake. Don't you intend to let us in, boy?"

"No."

A moment's silence followed Gottlieb's firm reply; then a heavy hand struck the door a powerful blow.

The boy knew the strength of the heavy hinges and thick planks; yet the men could in a little while batter down the door and overpower him.

"I know you are Tories, who don't like Jonas Whitton," said Gottlieb. "I have been told not to let any strange people into the house till my folks come back."

"But you will let us in, Gottlieb," laughed the Tory who did the talking for the big, brawny fellow in rough homespun. "If you won't open the door and don't want it to fall on you, stand aside. We are going to have the rebel powder."

"You charge the door at your peril," answered the boy, raising the rifle to his shoulder.

"Ha! What have you got in your hands, boy?"

"Attack the door and see!" Retreating footsteps took the Tories to the edge of the porch, and Gottlieb heard one say:

"He's but a boy. The capture of the powder will make heroes of us and hasten the fall of the fort. I am not afraid, Reuben; the door can't withstand me. So here goes!"

These words were followed by a spring across the porch, and the powerful Tory fell against the door, shaking every board in it.

"ATTACK THE DOOR AND SEE."

At the same time Gottlieb pressed the trigger, and the bullet which tore through the planks at short range drew a loud cry of pain from the man, who fell from the porch.

Accustomed to the use of the rifle, the boy patriot began to reload in the dark. Coolly, but rapidly, he rammed the bullet home, and once more stood ready to resume his defense of the powder.

"We'll come to-morrow and take every ounce of Yankee powder in the house, and you besides," roared a voice at the door. "We won't leave one log on another of this rebel domicile. You're not one whit too young to hang, boy. This is not the end of the battle. We only say good-night."

Then it was that one man led away another, who tottered as he walked, and who groaned at every step.

Gottlieb's bullet had inflicted a wound in the Tory's shoulder, and blood had been shed in defense of the Yankee powder.

Long before daylight half a dozen neighbors whom the boy could trust were concealed in the house; but the enemy did not come back.

When morning came more patriots gathered to the rescue, and before long Jonas Whitton's house had the appearance of a little fort.

Later in the day a party of Tories made their appearance, but the fearless men who met and defied them caused them to beat a hasty and inglorious retreat.

Gottlieb saved the patriot powder by his heroism, and when it entered Fort Stanwix under guard the brave little garrison threw their hats in the air, and gave three hearty cheers for the boy hero of the Mohawk valley.

It was by acts like these, many of which have never been recorded, that the colonies achieved their merited independence.

Gottlieb Whitton is one of the forgotten boy-heroes of the revolution.—Golden Days.

BRAIN FEVER AND SWOONS.

Old-Time Novelists' Favorite Afflictions seldom Heard Of Now.

"Now that readers have become so confounded exacting in matters of technical detail," said a New Orleans physician who confesses to a weakness for fiction, "our modern novel writers are deprived of a good deal of material that was used with great effect by their predecessors. This is particularly true of a little catalogue of diseases that figure conspicuously in what we are accustomed to refer to as 'standard fiction'—meaning the fiction that was admired by our fathers and grandfathers, and that now comes in 'sets,' especially suitable for Christmas presents.

"At the head of the list was a mysterious malady known as 'brain fever.' Brain fever was a great favorite with the early novelist, and has kept many a plot from getting into a tight snarl. It was supposed to result from any severe mental strain, and might be brought on by terror, joy, remorse, overwork, suspense, rage or grief. So you see how handy it was. It could strike down the villain, temporarily disable the heroine or excite one's sympathy for the poor but virtuous hero.

"The old-time 'standard' novels will average about three cases of brain fever to the volume," quotes the Times-Democrat. "The author never went into any details, but generally announced the malady as a telling climax to a chapter—for example: 'He was too late; Grace was already tossing in the delirium of brain fever,' or, 'Next morning the scoundrel awoke raving; he had brain fever.' The disease is so well established in fiction that many people still believe that it occurs in real life, which, by the way, is a fine tribute to genius.

"Another valuable 'property effect' of the old-time novelist was the swoon. You will find characters swooning all through the famous romances of 50 years ago, and the typical beautiful heroine of a good, rattling tale of adventure spent at least five per cent. of her time in that condition. The heroine, it is worth noting, was generally the only person in the book who 'swooned.' The hero, after being wounded in a duel or used up by some deed of daring, quite frequently 'fainted from exhaustion,' and the villain simply 'pressed his hand to his brow and fell senseless to the ground,' but it all came to the same thing, and was a very convenient piece of literary machinery.

"The people in modern 'realistic' novels faint very seldom; in fact, almost as infrequently as they faint in actual life. In practicing medicine for a quarter of a century I have seen human beings under almost every stress that could be imagined, but I have never yet seen anyone lose consciousness through emotion only."

QUEER FOOD FOR HORSES.

Graminivorous Animals Occasionally Have a Liking for Strange Provender.

I have found, says a writer in the Contemporary Review, that the addition of a pound of fair quality of moist brown sugar to a horse feed of chaff and corn doubles its work producing power and that, therefore, the ordinary feed may with this aid be greatly reduced in weight without proportionately reducing the efficiency of the animal getting it. When no other feed is obtainable a few pounds of flour, mixed with enough water to make them easily drinkable, have great staying power, but few horses would take this, however hungry, unless they had at some previous time been made accustomed to it. I have known horses, when there was little grass, habitually rob the camp of fresh, salt or dried meat. It is even more certain that no horse would touch flesh unless at some time accustomed to it.

What strange food graminivorous animals will eat when habituated to it is almost beyond belief. In Iceland horses and cattle are frequently fed on dried fish. I have known sheep eat meat, fruit, bread, pastry and the like, and even tobacco in considerable quantity without harm ensuing. During the early times of the diggings, when gold was being found in large quantities and horse feed, beyond the grass, was not procurable, many of the rich claim holders fed the horses used in their work on the mine with bread sooner than suffer delay.

Bread, even unleavened, is better food for horses than raw flour and water, but it takes time to prepare and is rarely available on an emergency, while flour is much more likely to be. In Singapore it is not uncommon for horses to be given a loaf of bread soaked with a bottle of beer, which they eat greedily.

Harvard's Great Electric Plant.

Prof. John Trowbridge has installed at Harvard university the most powerful apparatus in the world for the production of electro-motive force. The plant comprises 20,000 storage cells giving 40,000 electrical units of pressure, and this can be increased to 3,000,000 volts. But in order to obtain the full effect of so enormous a pressure, Prof. Trowbridge says it would be necessary to remove the apparatus into the center of an open field and elevate it at least 30 feet from the ground in order to avoid loss from the inductive action of floors and walls. With this great battery the highest degree of instantaneous temperature yet attained can be produced. Prof. Trowbridge hopes with its aid to obtain some clue to the temperature at which hydrogen exists in the stars. This plant furnishes, he adds, an ideal method of producing the X rays.—Youth's Companion.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

"I understand that the story that you filled your coffin in the summer is untrue." "Yes, there's nothing in it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"A friend of mine has a terrible case of lockjaw." "How did he contract the disease?" "He was speaking through a keyhole."—St. Louis Republic.

"What did Miss Gotrock's father do when you called last night?" "He rushed me to the front yard line and kicked a goal from the field."—N. Y. Journal.

"Jedge," cried the colored prisoner. "You say you gwine ter gimme justice. Fer de Lawd sake, don't do dat, jedge—I got trouble enough now!"—Atlanta Constitution.

"Say, ma, are girls with turned-up noses easier to kiss?" "Don't talk such silly nonsense, George." "Has cook got a turned-up nose?" "Yes. Do be quiet." "Well, she's the one I said it to."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Briggs—"So the passengers in the car discovered that Caudle and his wife were newly married, in spite of the efforts of both of them to keep it dark?" Griggs—"Yes; but it was his fault; he spoke to her several times during the trip."—Boston Transcript.

"Here, young man," said the old lady with fire in her eye; "I've brung back this thermometer you sold me." "What's the matter with it?" asked the clerk. "It ain't reliable. One time ye look at it it says one thing, and the next time it says another."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Language of Flowers.—"Do you think these carnations are becoming to me?" she asked. "Oh, yes," he replied, "but there are other flowers which I should rather see you wear." "Pray tell me what they are," she said, always anxious to please. "And I will wear them for you." "Orange blossoms!" he cried. So now it's all settled.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

CARELESS WITH THEIR JEWELS.

Women Who Travel Are Constantly Offering Temptations to Thieves.

The persistency with which women continue to carry their jewels and money in handbags when traveling in public conveyances is worthy of a better cause. As long as they continue the practice they must expect wily thieves occasionally to get away with their valuables, says the Chicago Chronicle. It is a favorite mode of transportation with women on the continent and some silly creatures over there, fancying it is English, now do the same careless thing. They say they don't care to trust thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds in their other luggage and must know where their jewels are. Very good, but then they should have the bag or case chained to their persons. A curious robbery of this sort occurred between Madrid and Bordeaux a few weeks since, when an English lady, the wife of a lawyer residing in Jamaica, landed at the first-mentioned city. The lady carried in a hand satchel her jewels, worth $4,000, and a sum of $1,000 in notes. At Bordeaux she was horrified to find her satchel missing and, thinking she must have dropped it, she telegraphed to the station masters at the places passed on the journey, asking them to look out for the missing property. Her purse contained money enough for her to continue to Paris, where she found a letter from her husband awaiting her; in this letter he told her to be careful while traveling, as he had been informed by detectives that she was watched by two Russians, a man and a woman, who wanted to steal her jewels and money. It was then that the whole mystery of the loss was explained. The lady had as traveling companions part of the way a young Russian and his ostensible wife, both excellent linguists, agreeable in manner and, according to their own showing, belonging to the Muscovite nobility. The young woman was particularly attentive to the lady, and with good reason, as the man, her confederate, was meanwhile angling for the satchel. The sharpers suddenly disappeared at Bordeaux, although they said they were bound for the Paris exhibition. There is little hope the victim of their artfulness will ever recover her property unless the persons who warned her husband shall throw out further information to enable the French police to track the thieves. It is said that every rich woman in London who is conspicuous for the magnificence of her jewels is known and watched by thieves who travel between England and Paris, and it is only when guarded by trusted servants that such mishaps are avoided. In New York society detectives hover near more than one millionaire's wife when she appears at the opera and society functions.

Scientific Extermination of Rats.

M. Danysz, of the Pasteur institute in Paris, has discovered a microbe which breeds pestilence among rats. He has had cultures containing the rat-destroying bacilli tested on farms and in warehouses with much success. In half of the cases the population of rats was completely destroyed; in other cases the number was greatly reduced.—Science.

An Odd

Trade Mark

And It's Origin.

The above singular combination is the trade-mark adopted by the Paris Medicine Company of St. Louis and is used in their advertisements of Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. To the many people who may be interested to know the origin of this odd trade-mark, the following information is given:

In the spring of 1893, the little two year old son of Mr. R. W. Grove was taken quite sick with malaria. Mr. Grove, knowing the virtue of his own medicine, commenced giving him Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. He had taken this prescription only a few days until quite a favorable change was noted, in fact, he grew so rosy, healthy and plump, that Mrs. Grove in describing his condition to her husband, remarked "Grove's Tonic makes our baby as fat as a pig". This led Mr. Grove to thinking that the expression "as fat as pigs" used in connection with babies, was a very common one, and suggested to him the idea of combining a child's face with a pig's body, with wording as above. "Grove's Tonic makes children as fat as pigs". It is an attractive trade-mark, and the remedy it represents—Grove's Tonic—is regarded by the public as being the very best prescription for Malaria, Chills and Fever. The record of the Paris Medicine Company shows that Nine Thousand gross—Ninety carloads—of Grove's Tonic have been sold this year from Jan. 1st, 1900, and as "orders are truly a good index of a medicine's worth" no one can doubt the virtue of Grove's Tonic. Druggists all sell Grove's Tonic on a no cure, no pay basis, for fifty cents a bottle.

Sandy as an Art Critic.

One day, while Millais was painting his famous picture, "Chill October," among the reeds and rushes on the banks of the Tay, a man came up behind him and stood looking at the picture, then at the surrounding landscape. Finally he asked in a broad Scotch dialect: "Man, did ye never try photography?" "No, never," replied Millais, painting slowly. A pause. "It's a hantle (great deal) quicker," said the man. "Yes, I suppose so." Another pause; then the Scotchman added, thoughtfully: "An' it's mair like the place!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

COLORS OF AUTHORS.

Successful Writers on Country Subjects Naturally Use a Lot of Green Words.

At first sight it may seem rather curious, but it is a fact that the value of a writer's work may be appraised by the color words he uses. Shakespeare's favorite color word was red. As a matter of fact, this is the characteristic word of most great writers. Out of every hundred color words used by Shakespeare in his poems, no fewer than 30 are red. White follows with 22; then comes black, 20; yellow, 17; green, 7; blue, 4.

It is only natural, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, that a writer on country subjects should use a lot of green words. Red must always be the predominant color in writings dealing with the hotter passions, with love and war. Even then the colors used depend in a remarkable manner upon the idiosyncracies of the writer. Taking the case of the poets, green is the color most used in the "Song of Songs." It is also the color most used by Coleridge, Shelley, Keats and Wordsworth. Black is the predominant color of Homer, and white of Catullus, Chaucer and Rossetti, while yellow is the favorite color of that weird writer, Poe. Red is the color of Tennyson, of Swinburne and Whitman.

It must be taken into consideration that the old writers often used color words in a different sense to their present meaning. Some people go so far as to say that things looked quite different to the ancients, and that green and blue have been seen only during the last 1,000 years.

Red is the most pleasant and vigorous of colors. It is a joyous color, full of life and grit. It is the color of the strongest of passions. In anything dealing with man and woman red must have its predominant place. It is the color of the rich, quick blood, of all that's best in life. White is usually a pleasant color, especially when associated with red, as a woman's white neck and red lips, ivory throat and blushing cheeks, alabaster forehead and rosy ears. Sometimes it represents cold, dull, pale, gray and wan things. Generally it is the color of innocence and purity, of sweet and wholesome things. Black, as a favorite verbal color, is usually found in the works of writers of somber, melancholic disposition. Such works are rarely of a healthy character. Green and blue are so closely related, in the sense used in this article, as often to merge. Generally green is a fresh, sweet color, the color of the country and opening life. Blue has more to do with the imagination. It is a learned, philosophical color. It is ethical and generally removed from everyday life. The works of a blue writer are deep and thoughtful, but rarely raise one's enthusiasm. The strong, human, red interest is lacking. Yellow is a horrible color. Nearly everyone feels a natural antipathy to this jaundiced hue. It and black were the favorite colors of Poe and thus account for the strangeness of that original writer's peculiar imaginings.

Curiously enough, yellow loses its loathsomeness if it possesses a dash of red or if it glistens. Its synonym golden is a pleasant word and is often used. A novelist will call his character's hair golden in the case of a heroine; he will call it yellow if she be an objectionable character. Writers use colors in the sense shown for the simple reason that we unconsciously have all our thoughts tinted. If in good health we think red; should our liver be out of order we think yellow. The bright, healthy majority are naturally red thinkers and read the works of red writers. Your jovial fellow looks at the world through rosy glasses and sees it to be optimistically red. The debilitated, burnt-out individual wearily looks through spectacles with yellow glasses and the prospect is hopelessly miserable.

SPEND LITTLE ON LIVING.

Though Wealthy, Some Men Contrive to Exist on a Mere Pittance.

Eight hundred miles east of the coast of Peru is a blazing desert where rain never falls. Its very dryness gives part of this great plain immense value, for the soda deposits of nitrate of soda have never been water-washed and are of huge value. Twenty years ago an Englishman called Howard Webster invested over $300,000 in a great tract of this rich mineral land. Then he settled down near the little town of San Mario, in the mountains, where he and his family live on the fruit he grows on five acres of land. Ten dollars a week cover their entire expenses. His property on the coast would fetch now ten times what he gave for it, yet he neither sells it nor works it. It is whispered that he is waiting till he can dispose of it for such a sum as will make each of his children a millionaire, says the Chicago Chronicle.

Knowing his son Mathias' gambling propensities, the late Baron von Sillar, who made $1,500,000 in beet sugar refining, very wisely left all his money in the hands of trustees, who were to pay Mathias the income half yearly. The first weeks of January and July in each year Mathias spends in regal splendor, generally at Monte Carlo. The rest of the time he lives on borrowed money. But of late years his friends have become tired of lending, and professional money lenders, who know that he cannot touch his capital, will have nothing more to do with him. At present this heir to $200,000 a year is living in a back street in Antwerp on less than five dollars a week.

SETTLE ODD BET IN GOTHAM.

Two Placarded Youths with a Wheelbarrow Startle Broadway.

The sense of humor of the tenderloin Broadway is nearly as broad as the blocks near Forty-second street, so the other night Broadway smiled at first mystified, then understandingly, when two young men and a wheelbarrow appeared in the middle of the street. The young men wore long duck outer garments, and panama straw hats. One rode and the other wheeled him. He who rode had attached to his person a sign which, he explained, he wore merely for protection. It read:

"I voted for McKinley. Don't shoot."

The loser wore across his back: "I am a Bryan fool. Hit me."

The advice was taken by a crowd of newsboys. The winner of the bet was Rufus B. Nassar, a member of the Seventh regiment. He who walked was "Steve" Floyd, an advertising man. The start was made from the Girard hotel in Forty-fourth street. The party went down Broadway to the Rossmore and then back again. In accordance with the odds of the bet—three to one—the winner wheeled the loser one block out of three. A feature of the parade was the liberal use of eggs in the hands of temporarily hostile friends.

OPPOSE CHANGE.

Boat Owners Wrought Up Over Suggestion of Taking Yacht Race to Newport Course.

The New York Tugboat Owners' association is hotly opposed to changing the course of the cup race next August from Sandy Hook to Newport. The tugboat men say that the change would mean a loss of more than $2,000,000. "There is just as much wind off Sandy Hook as there is off Newport," said Secretary Edward M. Timmins, of the Mutual company. "The changing of the course just for the benefit of a few yacht owners would mean the loss of millions to the business of this port. Two millions will not cover the amount spent during an international yacht race for hotel accommodations, coal, commission, steamboats, tugboats, water, provisions, dry docks, sails, supplies and gear. Sir Thomas Lipton spent $370,000 in the first four weeks he was here in 1899."

HOLMES' TEXAS CASTLE SOLD.

The Counterpart of the Famous Chicago House Changes Hands.

A deed conveying the famous Holmes castle property at Third and Rusk streets, Fort Worth, Tex., was among those filed lately. It was made by the Land Mortgage bank, of Texas, to the Traders' Investment company, the consideration received being $24,000, with a stipulation that $1,500 worth of improvements shall be made within a year. It is said that Holmes, whose execution for the murder of Pictzel occurred at Philadelphia several years ago, erected a building in Chicago the exact counterpart of this. The castle was constructed on lots belonging to Minnie Williams and her sister, and the deed just recorded is the finale of six years' litigation between the contractors who erected the structure, the local creditors of Holmes, and heirs of the Williams estate.

A Puzzler.

One trouble with a Kentucky man who swore he was telling the truth, says the Chicago Times-Herald, in the first place is that it is pretty hard to tell whether he is lying or telling the truth when he swears that he lied when he swore that he wasn't lying.

A NARROW ESCAPE. A GRATEFUL WOMAN.

MRS. F. J. LYNCH, GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Mrs. F. J. Lynch, 324 South Division street, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes: The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—"I earnestly recommend Peruna to any suffering woman as it cures quickly. I had a most persistent cough which nothing seemed to cure. Two bottles of Peruna did more for me than all the doctors seemed to do. In a couple of weeks I found myself in excellent health, and have been enjoying it ever since. Hence I look on Peruna as a true friend to women."

MRS. F. J. LYNCH.

Chronic Coughs and Colds Are Catarrhal Diseases.

Catarrh is the Continual Scourge of Christendom.

Catarrh hovers ominously over every city, and nestles treacherously in every hamlet. It flies with vampire wings from country to country, and casts a black shadow of despair over all lands. Its stealthy approach and insidious stay makes it a dread to the physician and a pest to the patient. It changes the merry laugh of childhood to the wheezy breathing of croup, and the song of the laughing maiden to the hollow cough of consumption. In its withering grasp the rounded form of the fond wife and mother becomes gaunt and spectral, and the healthy flush of manhood turns to the sallow, haggard visage of the invalid. Cough takes the place of conversation.

speech gives way to spitting, the repulsive odors of chronic catarrh poison the kiss of the fondest lovers, and thickened membranes blind sight, impair hearing and destroy taste.

Like the plague-stricken Egyptians a cry of distress has come out from every household, and the mildew of woe clings to every hearthstone.

Catarrh in some form, catarrh in some stage lurks as an enemy in the slightest cough or cold and finishes its fiendish work in heart disease and consumption.

No tissue, function, or organ of the body escapes its ravages; muscles wither, nerves shatter, and secretions dry up under its blighting presence. So stubborn and difficult is this disease that to invent a remedy to cure chronic catarrh has been the ambition of the greatest minds in all ages.

Is it therefore any wonder that the vast multitude of people who have been cured of chronic catarrh by Peruna are so lavish in their praise of this remedy? That the discovery of Peruna has made the cure of catarrh a practical certainty is not only the testimony of the people, but many medical men declare it to be true.

As a drug store in this age of the world is incomplete without Peruna, it can be obtained anywhere with directions for use. A complete guide for the prevention and cure of catarrh and all diseases of winter, sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shriver shows:

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to inflame and itch; it would bleed a little, then subside, but would not heal. It continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The Cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good. Mrs. R. Shriver, La Plata, Mo.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our free book on Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY.

Never has there arisen an organization that is capable of doing so much as this society for the needy helpless class to which its energies are devoted. It is nothing less than a practicable plan for saving every homeless child in America, and giving it a good fair chance in life. Its achievements, even to the present time, are wonderful. Organized fifteen years ago, it has spread into twenty-six States; and although, in many of these it has merely begun its work, it has cared for more than sixteen thousand homeless children. Wherever it is thoroughly organized, it is saving more children than all other institutions. The society is non-sectarian and combines in its scope all churches, and all unconvincedly disposed people. It has been heartily endorsed by the leading churches in their executive gatherings. It is broad in the application of its charities, receiving not only orphans and semi-orphans, but children both of whose parents are living—demanding only that the child needs a home; that its parents or guardians are unable to provide for it; that the child is under fourteen years of age; that it is of sound mind and body, and, if over eight years old, that it is not hard to control. Incorrigible children are left to the reform schools.

The wards of the Children's Home Society are not placed in a public Children's Home. It does not use the asylum system, nor does it place the children out as servants, but puts them in well selected family homes, to be raised as members of the families receiving them—to be sent to school, to Sunday School and to church, and to be brought up as Christian men should raise their own children. While some may regard these as stringent requirements, they demand only the protection that ought to be given to every child; and it is gratifying to know that in every State in which the society has operated for a few years, more homes have applied for children than the society could supply. Nor have the children, except in rare cases, disappointed those who have received them; but have developed into better children, than the average of those who have been brought up by their own parents. This is the result of the careful selection of homes, and shows that extreme views of the power of heredity have little foundations—that the child is almost entirely what training and environment make it. However, it is a mistake to suppose that a large proportion of these children are from the slums, or of criminal parentage. Many of them are of good average lineage, and some, of much more than average capacity, both intellectually and morally; while a few are of that desirable class the children of confident girls, who have "Loved not wisely, but too well"—children who are often more brilliant and more warmly affectionate than those of other classes, and so far as blood goes, there are some that are highly born yet, as previously intimated, this is not essential to good results. One State Senator, three Governors, at least one minister—the leader of his denomination in his State—and a vice president of the United States are among the many noted characters who have developed from the children of the slums.

Not only does the Children's Home Society place their wards in good homes, but it guards them till they are grown, removing them if wronged or neglected, and placing them in other homes, thus guarding the interests of the children as no other organization can do.

Nor does it conserve the interests of the child only. By the organization of a whole State it can more surely than any other organization find about such a child as may be wanted by an applicant; since a description of each child received is sent to the state officer—and in due time, somewhere in the State, the needed child may be secured. The result has been that so well as the people generally suited with the little ones given them, that the expression is not unusual—"We could not have suited ourselves better, if we had had a hundred to choose from."

A remarkable feature of the work is the economy with which it is conducted. It is not strange that in conducting a public children's home, an annual outlay of a hundred dollars per child is necessary to meet current expenses—in many cases much more; and since the time that the child remains in the asylum does not often average less than five years the cost of placing the average child in a home by that system, is not less than $500. But this society places children and watches over them till grown at an average of $50 each—ten children well cared for with the same amount that the asylum system cares for one. At the asylum they wait for the people to come for the child; by this plan, the agent goes out, finds and investigates the homes. Though it simply brings demand and supply together, it secures a higher grade of homes than can be found by the other system.

This result is secured by organization. Each State is divided into districts, with a superintendent over each district, and a State Superintendent over all. In addition to these, a local board is appointed in every town village and precinct, to care for the work in that immediate locality. These boards are again divided into committees, each having its part of the work to perform. It is through this system that so great a work has been effected.

The Kentucky society was started four years ago. For the past eighteen months, under the management of Geo. L. Schan, its devoted State Superintendent, with his able corps of assistants, it has done a good work. Since last May, it has cared for more needy children than all the "Children's Homes" in the State.

It will not be questioned by those who have familiarized themselves with the work of this society, that it is one of the great movements of the closing century. It is protecting not simply the helpless but the innocent; it is doing this in the best possible way—putting them into good homes to be loved and cherished and this it is doing in the most effectual method possible; while some of these little ones are taken from such surroundings that, had they remained there, they must of necessity have developed into criminals costing the state thousands of dollars.

In no way can homeless children secure better protection than by being placed in the care of this society; in no way can those who are willing to care for little ones, be better supplied; in no way can money be expended that it will accomplish more good.

Must Be Careful

The Methodist State Conference of Virginia, has decided that Preachers and Presiding Elders of that denomination must not ride to their places of worship or go about their pastoral duties on Sunday aboard street cars or railroad trains.

The body adopted, after lengthy discussion, the report which permits the preachers to go on horseback, instead of riding otherwise.
